Who was the best Hog Caller at the Del Mar Fair on opening day, June 16? Why, Will Neilsen of Lemon Grove, of course. His prize was appropriate — the hog cap he is wearing. The fair runs through July 4.

Gypsy moths found in San Diego County in trap near Hwy. 94 and Spring Street

Confirmation has been received from the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) of the finding of gypsy moth, a pest in the northeastern U.S., in two separate locations in San Diego county, County Agricultural Commissioner/Sealer Kathleen A. Thuner reported today. These are the first gypsy moths found in San Diego County in 1989.

One male gypsy moth was found in a trap in Valley Center near the intersection of Cole Grade Road and Valley Center Road. Three males were found in a single trap in La Mesa near the intersection of Spring Street and Highway 94.

Trapping will be increased to a very high density in a four-square mile area around each of the finds. Inspection of the traps will be on a daily basis to determine the source of the moths.

The adult gypsy moth has feathery antennae with dark-brown forewings and a 1 1/2 inch wingspread. Female moths are white with a wingspread of about 2 inches and cannot fly. The egg mass, covered with buff or yellowish hairs, is laid during the late summer on just about anything — trees, outdoor furniture, automobiles, campers, etc. If the eggs are placed on something that is relocated, a gypsy moth can be transported just about anywhere. The caterpillars cause all the damage, feeding on many different kinds of trees and shrubs, where one can eat up to a square foot of leaves daily.

Post Offices closes for 4th of July

Post offices will be closed to observe Independence Day, Tuesday, July 4, 1989. There will be no regular mail delivery on the 4th. However, Express Mail and Special Delivery mail will be delivered as usual.

Post offices will maintain normal schedules on Monday, July 3.

Holiday highway safety urged by MADD

The Fourth of July in San Diego means fireworks, parades, back-yard barbecues and swimming parties, homemade ice cream, and corn-on-the-cob. This year the fourth falls on Tuesday, and many of us will celebrate over a four-day weekend.

The Fourth of July weekend may also mean too many beers and Bloody Marys. When Bloody Mary takes to the road, too often she translates tragically into car crashes. Last year alone, 60 people were killed on California highways over the holiday weekend.

The California Highway Patrol (CHP) is doing its part to help curb alcohol impaired driving. Over the Fourth of July weekend last year, CHP officers made over 2,250 Driving Under the Influence (DUI) arrest, but they can't be everywhere.

Scott Hoganson, Area Vice President of PacTel Cellular in San Diego, and Cynthia Roark, President of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) in San Diego, are asking that people with cellular phones join in a cellular safety watch to help make the Fourth of July holiday weekend safer on our highways.

According to Hoganson, "One of the advantages of cellular phones is that they expand the highway observation network. People with cellular phones regularly call the Highway Patrol to inform them of hazards in the roadway, accidents or stranded motorists."

"I would also like to make cellular telephone users aware that they can assist in keeping our highways safe by alerting the Highway Patrol of suspected drunk or impaired drivers."

Hoganson stated that all drivers should be extra alert for the following indications of an impaired driver:

- Straddling the center lane or lane marker
- Weaving, swerving, drifting or tailgating
- Driving in the wrong direction of traffic

- Accelerating or decelerating erratically
- Driving without headlights at night
- Making unusually wide turns

He emphasized that if anyone with a cellular phone spots these symptoms of an impaired driver, he or she should dial 911, which is a free cellular call, to alert the police or highway patrol.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING AND THE PROPOSED ADOPTION OF A FINAL ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT

SAN DIEGO COUNTY WATER AUTHORITY WATER DISTRIBUTION PLAN

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the San Diego County Water Authority's (SDCWA) Board of Directors will take action on the certification and adoption of the Final Environmental Impact Report for the Water Distribution Plan on July 13, 1989, at 4 P.M., in the Board Room at 3211 Fifth Avenue, San Diego, California. The Draft Environmental Impact Report has completed a 45-day public review period which commenced on April 5, 1989, and ended on May 19, 1989. Comments received during this period will be reviewed and considered by the Board of Directors in reaching their decision.

Description of the Plan

The Water Distribution Plan is designed to improve the reliability and efficiency of the SDCWA water delivery system to transmit sufficient quantities to meet the region's projected water demand to the year 2010. This system supplies water to approximately 97 percent of the population in San Diego County.

Improvements recommended by the Water Distribution Plan include the construction of a large diameter pipeline ranging in size from six to nine feet, and increases in capacity to existing filtration plants. If implemented, construction would take place in three phases, with the first phase beginning in the year 1990. Improvements to the SDCWA's transmission system are planned within the general vicinity of the existing Second San Diego Aqueduct, extending from the Riverside/San Diego County Line to the Lower Otay Reservoir. Installation of the pipeline would involve the excavation of a trench approximately 18-feet deep and generally 12 to 15-feet wide, which would cause disruption to traffic and neighboring properties. Tunnels would be used where required. The following areas, from north to south, contain preliminary alternative pipeline alignment locations for Phase I: Twin Oak Valley, City of San Marcos, Elfin Forest, San Dieguito, Mira Mesa, Scripps Ranch, Mission Trails Regional Park, Navajo/San Carlos, City of La Mesa, City of El Cajon, City of Lemon Grove, Valle de Oro, and Otay.

The SDCWA Board of Directors will make its decisions on the best overall routes based on community concerns, engineering feasibility, environmental impacts, and costs. All interested parties are invited to attend this meeting.

Meet the president at Old Town's 2nd Annual Old Fashioned Fourth of July

Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of the United States will be the guest of honor as the Old Town Chamber of Commerce hosts the 2nd annual Old Fashioned Fourth of July celebration in Old Town.

Free to the public, this day-long event offers Old Town visitors a chance to celebrate the arrival of American traditions to the west. Featured performers and events will take place throughout the Old Town community; in the State Historic Park, along San Diego Avenue, the Whaley House Museum and Heritage Park.

The Boosters of Old Town begin the celebration with a ceremonial salute and the Raising of Old Glory in Washington Square in the plaza of Old Town State Historic Park. Visitors will find a military encampment with authentic displays and demonstrations of antique military equipment as well as a showing of fashions of the 1800's.

Visitors to the Whaley House Museum are invited to a special "Presidential Furnishing's Exhibit," featuring items from the presidencies of Lincoln, Adams, Jackson and Grant.

In Heritage Park, the classic beauty of these Queen Anne Victorians originally from Alonzo Horton's New Town will host a special collection of toys for all ages.

Throughout the day, performers will showcase the sounds of American Folk, Bluegrass, and the four-part harmony of barber-shop quartet music.

Plenty of parking will be available throughout Old town. Park anywhere and ride the old town trolley free of charge to all of the events.

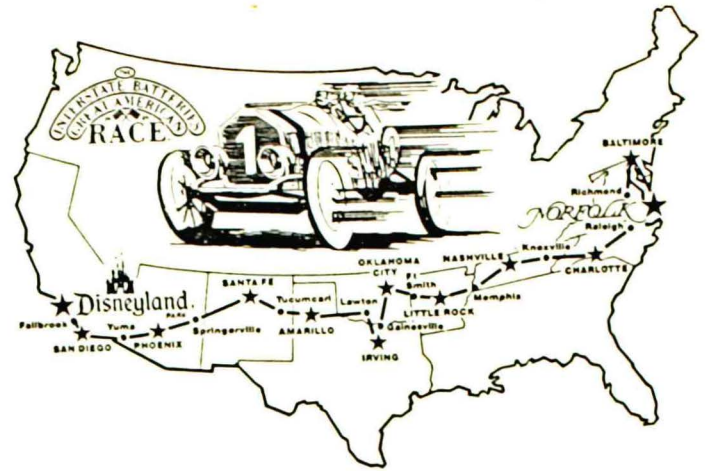

Car race begins with great excitement

The Interstate Batteries Great American Race left Norfolk, Virginia on schedule the morning of June 26, 1989. In ten days, 120 vintage cars will arrive in San Diego en route to the finish line at Disneyland the following day.

We will report on the progress of the race because of the local interest in following Leonard Harpenau and his wife, Gloria, as they compete in their 1936 Buick. They are long-time East County residents and automobile racing enthusiasts.

On day one, the race went from Norfolk to Baltimore. The Harpenaus reported via telephone that they made the first leg without major problems.

An auxiliary fuel pump went out, but that didn't keep them from finishing. Gloria reported that they were two minutes late in the leg following lunch because they were having too much fun! The crowds were exciting, and Leonard was besieged with autograph requests.

From Baltimore the race heads south to Charlotte, North Carolina, and then it's westward ho!

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

The backbone of democracy is patriotism.

The decision of the U.S. Supreme Court to condone flag-burning was a mistake of immense proportions.

Theoretically, it was thought that desecration of our flag would give promise to dissenters. Flag-burning is so unnecessary. Dissenters have plenty of other avenues open for making their voices heard.

Those who served their country in war are particularly resentful of the decision. They think of those who lay wounded or dead having offered their all for the country they loved and respected. They suffer at the thought that burning the flag is legal.

But there are patriotic activists who make a point. There was a scenario in the San Diego Stadium a few years back in which I took a part. It tells that there are those who carry a high respect for the American flag and for our national anthem.

It was the final year that Buzzie Bavasi was president of the San Diego Padres baseball team. Within the area of his management was the Padres press box.

Thus, Bavasi was host to some 75-100 sports journalists in the press box each game day. From this box, on the same level and not more than 20 yards away, is the owner's box. A curve in the stadium between the 2 boxes makes it easy for those in the press box to see into the owners box, and vice versa.

The press box is but 3 tiers deep. In the front row, just ahead of me, was a young, bearded man who represented a local radio station. He was the only person in the press box who remained seated during the playing of the national anthem.

On the third day, I walked down to him to ask why. He said that he didn't believe in showing respect to material things. I suggest that he, as a guest, should conform to the expectations of the host. He shrugged and turned away.

The next day, before gametime, I visited with Bavasi in his box and we talked about it. "Stand next to the guy so I can identify him," Bavasi said. I did.

After the anthem was played I saw Bavasi leave his box. A couple of minutes later he was in the press box. He walked directly to the seated reporter and said, "Do you have a press credential? Let me have it."

He ordered the youth to stand as he tore the credential into pieces and turned the youth toward the exit. "Get your --- out of here. I never want you back in here as long as I am running this team!"

Well, that was a few years back and Bavasi has moved on and is now semi-retired. The ousted youth meanwhile had changed jobs and was back in the press box bravely wearing a current press credential on his chest.

I watched him. Do you know what? The guy now stands when the anthem the anthem is played!

The matter is related to the flag-burning edict of the Supreme Court. I know there are some who believe the court decision is a victory for their cause.

But there are an awful lot of Bavasis out there. And the Supreme Court will someday come to realize that the flag-burning decision has created more problems than it resolved.

More pipeline concern

I noted an article in your Thursday, June 15, 1989 edition discussing the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce's opposition to the massive water pipeline being planned through the middle of Lemon Grove by the San Diego County Water Authority. While it is correct that the City of Lemon Grove has primary jurisdiction for the maintenance of public facilities such as streets, traffic lights, etc., certain other entities, such as the San Diego County Water Authority, have overlaying jurisdiction which allows them to dictate to the City where this pipeline is to be constructed.

I am urging all business leaders and residents to carefully consider the necessity of bisecting the City of Lemon Grove through several of its busiest streets, such as Massachusetts, San Miguel and Skyline, for the purpose of supplying water to an as yet undeveloped project in the South Bay region. To understand the scale of this project, everyone should keep in mind that this eight-foot diameter pipeline will actually be in excess of 24 feet in circumference. The hoped for construction rate of 100 linear feet per day is extremely optimistic, given the fact that the Environmental Impact Report does not even address the issue of many of the soil problems, such as hard bed rock along Massachusetts. There is no question that this is the single largest public works project ever constructed in the Lemon Grove area.

I believe that this project is ill conceived in its original goal of connecting Lake Murray to Sweetwater Lake. However, setting that issue aside, it is even more important to question the validity of the study which indicates the line should come through Lemon Grove because it appears to be the cheaper alternative.

This is part of a one-half billion dollar water project which is being undertaken by the San Diego County Water Authority. There are several alignments of this same pipeline that would take it outside the city of Lemon Grove entirely. One alignment would take it down the state route 125 corridor. The County Water Authority consultant has determined that this would not be an appropriate route since preliminary investigations indicate that Caltrans is not in favor of sharing any portion of the right-of-way. It seems that the Environmental Impact Report is extremely self-serving and leaves nearly as many unanswered questions as it answers.

It is vital to the livelihood of our business community and the peace of our residential community that this project be opposed by as many people as possible. My meetings with the consultant on this project have convinced me that numbers do count and that as many people as possible should become involved in this effort to sway the decision of the San Diego County Water Authority Board of Directors. I urge all residents and business individuals to write the Board of Directors of the San Diego County Water Authority before the hearing set for July 13, 1989.

Carriers praised

Sometimes the very size of an organization overshadows the individual actions of its workforce. Such is the case with the Postal Service. Among the 6,400 postal workers in San Diego County is a surprisingly large group who, with little fanfare or recognition, have provided invaluable, largely unmeasurable service to the community; service far beyond the daily routine of delivering the mail. If indeed this service could be measured, it might very well read in "lives saved" or "property damage averted."

For the Postal Service, size has its unique opportunities. With over 2,000 carrier routes in the county, letter carriers also serve as the community's daytime eyes and ears. None know this better than the elderly and the disabled, who depend more so than many, on the postman's arrival each day. And no one knows like your postman when something unusual, possibly injury or sudden illness, prompts an unexpected build-up of mail.

This close relationship with customers prompted the formation of the Postal Alert program several years ago. Jointly administered by the Area Agency on Aging and the Postal Service, it provides a method of emergency contact when unusual circumstances at an elderly person's address indicate a possible problem.

It's hard to find a post office that doesn't have once recent episode of a postal worker coming to the aid of a customer. Whether it's a life-threatening emergency that requires the dousing of a fire, administering CPR to a heart attack victim or pulling an unconscious child from a swimming pool, postal workers have been there. They've even assisted law enforcement agencies in identifying and apprehending burglary suspects.

Recently a newly-hired carrier who had stopped his jeep to make a delivery was rear-ended by another vehicle. The Encinitas carrier, Mark Feest, was severely injured and must now learn to function while paralyzed from the arms down. With a wife due to deliver their first child within weeks, and very little medical coverage, postal employees throughout the county independently organized fund raisers and so far have contributed over $7,000 to Feest's family to help them meet expenses.

I think that you can see that whether it's providing emergency assistance to the injured or elderly, nabbing a purse snatcher, or helping one of their own, postal employees do so much more than just deliver the mail. And for that, I'm very proud.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

"Did you pick my first ripe tomato?" my wife asked me with a bit of anger in her voice.

"I never touched your old tomato. It must have been the neighbor," I replied.

From then on, nearly every night, a ripe tomato was plucked off the vine by someone or something before we could serve it on our dinner table.

I approached my good neighbor, "Have your heard about my missing tomatoes?"

"No, but there are several opossums in the area that could have done the job and not leave a trace," he replied.

I read up on opossums and found out that they do steal vegetables, carry them off and wash their food before eating it. I kept a late night, early morning vigil, but never could see the little masked thieves in action.

We finally did find a nearly ripe tomato with large teeth marks in it and paw prints all around the vines.

About the middle of May, my wife planted a dozen withered, anemic-looking tomato plants in our back yard planters. In only six weeks, together with her "green thumbs," lots of plant food and the Lemon Grove "best climate on earth," they grew to over 3-feet tall. The plants were so prolific that the baby tomatoes hung on the vines like clusters of grapes.

"After all my work, I'm not going to let those pesky opossums share my harvest," my sweet wife ranted.

We built a wire cage around the bountiful crop, sides and top. The enclosure was so impregnable that for a short time, we hadn't figured a way to get in to pick the big, ripe beauties. So me, my wife, and the "masked bandito" would just look through the wire and drool.

The "tomato robbery" problem was solved, but now we suffered from the invading "nibbling munchkins." The ripe fruit was intact on the vine but always slashed by tooth or paw. Field rats, who were small enough to get through the wire, were now destroying our bumper crop. By placing traps around the enclosed vines, we were soon rid of our toothy friends.

"Is it really worth it?" Next year, it will be flow-ers in the planters and tomatoes from the Lucky Market.

Support for pipeline

Helix Water District has been pleased to serve the community of Lemon Grove since 1913. We have been a part of the growth from largely agricultural users in the early days to serving nearly 22,750 people in 1989.

Our service comes from a network of transmission lines operated by the San Diego County Water Authority (SDCWA), from which Helix buys almost all of its water.

An important part of that network involves a major pipeline between Lake Murray and Sweetwater Reservoir. This treated water line is needed to put the water where the people are, not for filling up lakes as it may sound when you say it connects two reservoirs. This pipeline connects directly to a Helix metering station where Helix can supplement its treated water supply as needed, particularly on days of extreme high water use. The connection is direct to Helix and so is the benefit to Lemon Grove users.

All of the routes proposed by the SDCWA would go through a portion of the Helix Water District. There are no easy routes, none free of disruption, but considering traffic, cost, noise, utility disruption, rights-of-way, hydraulics and other factors, the Western Alignment (Massachusetts and Broadway South and then East to Jamacha) is considered the preferred route by the SDCWA.

Water lines are indeed the life lines of our community, and while Helix does not have a choice or position on the preferred route, we do support this project as a way of helping guarantee our ability to serve the current and future water needs of the communities we serve.

Supergroup Blood, Sweat & Tears to appear in three shows July 1-3 at the Wild Animal Park

The distinctive "jazz-rock" sound of supergroup Blood, Sweat & Tears will fill the San Diego Wild Animal Park's outdoor concert amphitheater July 1-3.

Blood, Sweat & Tears will appear Saturday, Sunday and Monday at 5 p.m. in Mahala Amphitheater. Concerts are free with admission to the Wild Animal Park, and seating is first-come, first-served festival style on the grass. Visitors may bring blankets for seating, food and canned soft drinks in to the Park; but no alcoholic beverages are allowed.

Blood, Sweat & Tears was formed in 1968, with the aim of expanding the scope of a rock & roll band by adding jazz, blues, folk and classical elements. The most notable feature of the new group was its full brass section, creating a sound that was further popularized by another "jazz-rock" band called Chicago. The group recorded their mildly successful debut album in 1968, then nearly dissolved as several founding members left to pursue other projects.

The band regrouped, added a popular Canadian blues singer named David Clayton-Thomas, and went to work on another record. Clayton-Thomas' vocal style proved the key to success, and Blood, Sweat & Tears' self-titled second album held the #1 spot on the popular music charts for seven weeks in 1969. Among its songs were such Top Ten hits as "You've Made Me So Very Happy," "Spinning Wheel" and "And When I Die." It won the group three Grammy Awards that year, including the prize for Album of the Year.

Blood, Sweat & Tears' third album also hit #1, and contained the hits "Hi-De-Ho" and "Lucretia MacEvil." They toured throughout the United States, playing to sold-out arenas, and played in Eastern Europe on a goodwill tour for the U.S. State Department.

Popularity of the band waned in the early 1970's when Clayton-Thomas departed to pursue a solo career. Personnel changes continued, but each one brought distinguished musicians into the group and never lowered its intense musical standards. David Clayton-Thomas returned to the helm of the band in the mid-'70's, and they have been packing in the fans ever since.

The San Diego Wild Animal Park is located 30 miles north of downtown San Diego, via Interstate 15 and the Via Rancho Parkway exit. Ticket packages, which include admission, mono-rail tour and all shows, cost $12.95 for adults and $6.20 for children 3-15. For further information call 480-0100.

It's the Law

By Matthew Lehrer, Attorney at Law

What's In a Name, Anyway?

Question: A young couple wants to hyphenate their last names and adopt the hyphenated name as their married name. Can this be done without the Court's permission?

Answer: Yes. The fact is, every year thousands of people in California officially change their first and/or last names. You are not stuck with the name you were given at birth. You can change your name if you do not like your name or if it is not the "real you." The only limitation on choosing a new name is you cannot do so for "fraudulent purposes" (to do something illegal) or to "interfere with the rights of others." This usually means taking advantage of the name of a person. You cannot change your name to Ronald Reagan (even if you want to), unless there is a compelling reason for you to do so.

In California, adults have always had the right to use whatever name they like. In addition, there is a simple legal procedure to change one's name which usually involves nothing more than filing a few papers with the Court Clerk.

Both the "usage method" and the "court petition" methods are legal methods for changing one's name. The "usage" method simply means using a new name in all aspects of your personal, social and business life. No court action is necessary, and the key requirement is consistency. You must use the same name with everyone, all of the time. For example, you should inform various governmental and business agencies to change your name on their records, tell all of your friends and acquaintances you have changed your name, introduce yourself to others using your new name, etc.

Alternatively, a name change by court petition is accomplished by filling out a few forms and taking them to the County Clerk. A short notice is then published in a local newspaper stating you are changing your name. Unless someone objects to your name change, it will normally be approved without the necessity of appearing in Court.

If you are over 18-years-old, you have a choice between the usage method or the court petition method. They are equally legal. Once a name change has been accomplished, by either method, important documents should be acquired using your new name. For example, driver's licenses, social security cards, voter registrations, credit cards, etc.

Even if the Court's permission to change one's name is desired or required, the procedures are generally fairly simple and may be accomplished without the assistance of any attorney. The advantage of the usage method is its simplicity and its cost - it's free!

Financial aid available for higher education

Higher education costs may be sky high, but that doesn't mean education after high school is out of reach. With tuition costs rising every year, you need to know about all the programs that can help you pay for those years at school. This year, the federal government will spend $15.2 billion in the assistance of higher education. You may qualify for one or more of these programs.

The U.S. Department of Education has published "The Student Guide, 1989-90" (Item 516V, free), which explains grant, loan and work-study programs for college, vocational and technical school students and tells how to apply for them. For your free copy, send your name and address, and the item number to S. James, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Federal financial aid falls into three categories: loans, grant and work-study. Loans are borrowed money you must pay back with interest. You are given a grace period after you finish school before you have to start repaying the loan. Grants are awards that you don't have to pay back, and work-study is a program where you work to earn money to help pay for school. Eligibility for these programs depends primarily on your need. "The Student Guide" gives you 80 pages of detailed information on all the eligibility criteria, as well as the deadlines and procedures for applying for federal student aid.

Other sources can help fund your education. Begin looking for them by contacting the financial aid administrator at each school you are considering. Also, your state education agency has information on financial aid programs available to residents of your state.

Employers are another good source of financial aid. Many companies, as well as labor unions, have programs to pay higher education costs for employees or members and their children.

Your local public library also has information on state and private sources of aid. Be sure to check with other local organizations including foundations, religious groups, fraternities and sororities, and local clubs. Many of these organizations have special educational grants, scholarships and loans of their own.

When you send for your free copy of "The Student Guide" (Item 516V), you will also receive your free copy of the "Consumer Information Catalog." Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the catalog lists about 200 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

Congressman Bates to hold local hearings on catastrophic health care financing

Congressman Jim Bates announced that he will be holding a Congressional field hearing at the Scottish Rite Memorial Center in Mission Valley on July 5, 1989 at 10 a.m. regarding the new Medicare Catastrophic Protection Act.

"My constituents are upset with the way this new law is funded," said Rep. Bates. "This hearing will enable them to voice their views and to help me come up with a plan of reform." In Congress, Bates sits on the House Subcommittee on Health and the Environment, whose jurisdiction includes all health care matters.

Health care experts, in coordination with the Coalition for Affordable Health Care, will present short testimony on the effects that this law has made, both from a health and a financial perspective.

In addition, time will be allotted for a "round-table" discussion in which audience members can make recommendations directly to the Congressman. Bates has invited open testimony to the hearing.

"I invite anyone, and everyone to participate, observe and tell their friends about this hearing," said Bates. "It affects all seniors now, and everyone else in a short number of years."

HUD publications offer help for home-buyers

If your home is supposed to be your castle, you don't want to get stuck with a dump. That's why you need to know all you can about purchasing a home before you buy.

To help you be sure that your purchase is a wise one, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has published three informative booklets.

"Wise Home Buying" (Item 163V, $1) tells you how to shop for, inspect and finance a house. "Home Buyer's Vocabulary" (Item 161V, $1) lists commonly used home buying terms and defines them. "Homeowner's Glossary of Building Terms"

(Item 162V, $1) defines some of the terms used in home construction, repair and maintenance.

For your copies of these publications, send your name, address and fees, along with the titles and item numbers to R. Woods, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Sports Commentary

By John E. Wirges

The Padres are battling it out on a tough road trip and the hopes are they'll do it right for a change after the smart start from a well-deserved boot in the buttocks and an off-day workout ordered by long suffering manager Jack McKeon.

It took a long time for McKeon to reach his boiling point, but when futility on the field leading into last weekend reached new levels of stupidity, he finally blew his cork and unleashed a tongue-lashing that a million fans (to date) thought was well aimed, well deserved and long overdue.

The Padres are supposed to be a scrappy lot, working to advance runners, giving oneself up for the advancement of others, pushing runners into scoring position and playing totally unselfish baseball.

That's McKeon ball. "Baseball," he insists, "is a team game. It's not nine guys building individual records. It's 24 guys playing for one purpose."

But that's not how the Padres of late have been playing. It started long before last Friday night when Louie Salazar ignored on deck batter Shawn Abner's signal to slide and loped across home plate big, dumb fat and out.

Salazar was a double goat in that game, lost by the margin of a single run. Louie missed a suicide squeeze bunt in the 6th inning leaving Benito Santiago hung out high and dry.

Players have to hit the pitch on a suicide bunt, even if they have the throw the bat at the ball. That's basic baseball.

But so are a lot of other things the Padres are not doing, or doing wrongly. A list of their inept acts, miscues and misadventures over the past few months would fill volumes.

Physical errors are part of the game and neither McKeon, nor any other manager worth his pinstripes attaches undue blame to any player who blows a play.

It's the mental errors and the subpar approach to the game some players seem to make over and over that drive patient men like McKeon past the boiling point.

It's Padre policy to move runners, yet how many times have you seen guys like Abner, Rob Nelson, Roberto Alomar, or Benito Santiago try to hit a 5-run homer when just putting the ball in play would score a run or more?

How many times have the Padres stranded a player at third with less than 2 outs? Too darned many, that's how many.

It would do well if some of McKeon's troops paid more attention to the work habits of Gary Templeton, Tony Gwynn or Tim Lincecum. They are down in the dirt, hard nosed, "team" players.

A case in point: They are tough outs. They rarely swing at at the first pitch. They give runners a chance to get in on a movement play. And when they do hit, they run it out . . . hard.

Yet, there are Padre players who go to the plate after the opposing pitcher has walked a pair on 8 straight balls and pop out on the first pitch.

The worst part is, some of them don't seem to care. They dress in a major league locker room; therefore, they must be major leaguers. Some of them could be dressing down pretty darned quick.

Jack McKeon laid down some law and his players have a full road trip to put them into action. His system wins. He's just got to get rid of the players who refuse to be winners.

Crunchers win three, but lose finale

You can catch them in Escondido this weekend

The highly competitive 19-under ASA Junior Olympic fast pitch softball team traveled to Las Vegas to compete in the 20 team Invitational. The Crunchers won their pool handily with 3 straight wins.

In game one, behind the two-hit pitching of Lisa Perettie, the locals came out on top of the Phoenix Westerners 6-1. In that game, Alison Brickner drove in Lisa Mora with the game winner in the top of the first. Lisa Wilson hit a towering triple, adding two RBI's; Lisa Perettie and Alison Brickner led the team with two hits each. Shortstop Cathy Slatinsky was credited with outstanding defensive plays.

The Utah Stars were at the mercy of pitcher Amy Dawson, who threw a three-hitter in game 2, giving up only 1 run in an 8-1 rout. The Crunchers had 10 hits with Amy Dawson, Lisa Perettie and Cathy Slatinsky having two each. The Crunchers played error-free ball with outstanding plays by Ali Pniak and Lisa Mora in the outfield.

In the emotion-filled early Sunday morning game, the Orange County Athletics came out for revenge in game 3. But before the end of the first inning, the Crunchers were ahead to stay, 4-2. Cathy Slatinsky drove in one run, but it was Amy Dawson who cleared the bases for 3 RBI's. Winning pitcher, Alison Brickner hit a booming two run triple over Grossmont player La Frania West's head to help her cause in the top of the second. Crunchers let down on defense, committing an uncharacteristic 5 errors leading to the unearned runs.

In the finals, the Blue Darters from Sacramento played a see-saw game with the Crunchers, with the Darters eventually coming out on top 3-2. Again it was the defense that let down just enough to let the Darters escape with the win in the bottom of the 7th. Catcher Lisa Wilson played a masterful game behind the plate.

Crunchers stay at home this weekend, playing in the Escondido Freedom Tournament. A return match of the Batbuster is on the slate for Friday night, June 30 at Kit Carson Park. Come on out and cheer your local girls on to victory. There are games scheduled all weekend long. For sponsorship or information, call manager Grace Brickner at 697-1096.

The Starlight Bowl comes alive with 'The Sound of Music'

Starlight Musical Theatre's second production of the season, The Sound of Music, will open at the Starlight bowl, June 29-July 16. Darryl Ferrera, familiar to Starlight audiences as a featured actor in two of last summer's musicals, and recently as the evil Captain Hook's sidekick, Smeé, in Peter Pan at the Civic Theatre, will direct the production.

The Sound of Music is based on the true story of the von Trapp family who lived in Austria during the onset of World War II. The story begins when Maria, a young impetuous postulant, is sent from her abbey to the home of Captain von Trapp to act as governess for his seven motherless children. She brings music and joy into the lives of the youngsters and softens the stern Captain's heart. Here she discovers her true home is not in a nunnery but instead in the lives of the von Trapp family as a wife and mother. Their happiness is marred, however, as the Nazis threaten to invade Austria. The von Trapps are forced to flee over the Alps to safety. Although the musical ends here, the von Trapps eventually found passage to America where they were well received as folk-singers in concert halls across the country during the 1930's and 40's.

The Sound of Music will play for 15 performances at the Starlight Bowl, Balboa Park June 29-July 2, July 4-9 and July 13-16. All performances begin at 8 p.m.

For ticket information, including special discounts for children, students and groups, call (619) 544-7827, Monday through Sunday, between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Sarah Tattersall plays the role of Maria in Starlight's production of The Sound of Music which will play June 29-July 16 at the Starlight.

RECORDED IN OFFICIAL RECORDS OF SAN DIEGO COUNTY, CA., JUNE 14, 1989, VERA L. LYLE, COUNTY RECORDER TRUSTEE SALE NO. 819132 REFERENCE: 11-8906-0104 NOTICE OF DEFAULT AND ELECTION TO SELL UNDER DEED OF TRUST
IMPORTANT NOTICE

IF YOUR PROPERTY IS IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR PAYMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT ANY COURT ACTION, and you may have the legal standing to bring your account in good standing by paying all of your past due payments plus permitted costs and expenses within the time permitted by law for reinstatement of your account, which is normally five business days prior to the date set for the sale of your property. No sale date may be set until three months from the date this notice of default may be recorded (which date of recordation appears on this notice).

The amount is $85,885.61 as of 06/14/89, and will increase until your account becomes current. You may not have to pay the entire unpaid portion of your account, even though full payment amount stated above.
However, you and your beneficiary or mortgagee may mutually agree in writing prior to the time the notice of sale is posted (which may not be earlier than the end of the three-month period stated above) to, among other things, (1) provide additional time in which to cure the default by transfer of the property or otherwise; (2) establish a schedule of payments in order to cure your default; or both (1) and (2).

Following the expiration of the time period referred to in the first paragraph of this notice, unless the obligation being foreclosed upon or a separate written agreement between you and your creditor permits a longer period, you have only the legal right to stop the sale of your property by paying the entire amount demanded by your creditor.

To find out the amount you must pay, or to arrange for payment to stop the foreclosure, or if your property is in foreclosure for any other reason, contact: DOUGLAS ROBERT PRICE STATEWIDE FORECLOSURE SERVICES 4540 KEARNY VILLA ROAD #114 SAN DIEGO, CA 92123 (619) 571-7862
If you have any questions, you should contact a lawyer or the government agency which may have insured your loan.
Notwithstanding the fact that your property is in foreclosure, you may offer your property for sale, provided the sale is concluded prior to the conclusion of the foreclosure.
Remember, YOU MAY LOSE LEGAL RIGHTS IF YOU DO NOT TAKE PROMPT ACTION.
